

MUA 'E-Bulletin'

Volume: E5 Issue5 Official Management University of Africa Internal Bulletin

Enabling Futures, Impacting Progress

Enabling Futures, Impacting Progress

SPORTS DAY

This has definitely been the highlight of June. The management, in collaboration with the Human Resource Department organized a sport that would see students compete against staff, as well as their fellow students from our two campuses. The sports day was held on 24th June at our Kisaju main campus and the main activities included Basketball, Football, Volleyball, Board games, Badminton and Lawn Tennis. The day was led by the Vice Chancellor Prof. Washington Okeyo and the Deputy Vice Chancellor Dr. John Cheluget.

While giving the opening remarks, the VC urged both the staff and students to ensure they engage in sports more often and keep fit, as all work with no play makes Jack a dull boy.

The day ended with students taking leads in volleyball and basketball while staff won in badminton and football. Issuing of trophies followed after led by the Dean of students Mr. Moses Leseiyo. Congratulations to everyone who participated.

Picture 2: VC Prof. Washington Okeyo giving his opening remarks during the sports day at Kisaju campus picture 3: Students and staff warming up before the commencement of sports activities.

Picture 2: VC Prof. Washington Okeyo interacting with students.

INNOVATION AND INCUBATION WEEK

The Management University of Africa held an Innovation and Incubation week that saw students showcase their various innovations and their supervisors and panelists would judge and give their final word, that is, if they would proceed to the next step. There were six stages of the innovation until its incubation.

The students had brilliant innovations, led by our masters' students, Daniel Kimwetich who presented on sliding whiteboards which not only saves on space but also gives students ample time to digest and see whatever they are taught, and Alvin Munyao who showcased his e-commerce payment solution. We also had Mr. Kennedy Mwangi, founder of Thorium Organic Foods explaining how his innovation helps farmers in e-agribusiness solutions. Others were Ms. Yushra presenting Yushy app for flower delivery, Mr. Peter Ndashimiye and David Ian Thananga presenting on a podcast named Voice of Mua, a communication center for both the students and faculties generally, Mr. Francis Njuri presenting on his online radio station and Ms. Noeline Sande presenting on a patient monitoring system, an application that is set to improve the health system, among others.

The students were urged to be generally creative and to approach the innovation team, should they have anything. This is at par with the Competency Based Curriculum that was recently introduced by the Government of Kenya.

picture 4: VC Prof Washington Okeyo giving his opening remarks on the first day of the incubation and innovation week.

picture 5: Ms. Yushra presenting her flower delivery application.

picture 6: Alvin Munyao presenting on Sera Pay Application. Looking on is the innovation team and students.

Picture 7: Mr. Kennedy Mwangi, the founder of Thorium Organic Foods. Looking on is our VC and DVC.

picture 8: Noeline Sande, staff, presenting on Patient Monitoring System Application picture 9: Main campus students David Ian and Peter Ndashimiye presenting on Voice of MUA podcast, one of their innovations.

Events

Examinations

Examinations for the May-September 2022 semester commenced on Monday 18th July. All students are encouraged to prepare adequately for the examinations, read the examination regulations and rules in the students' handbook.

We wish you the very best in the exams!

PICTORIAL

Picture 10: Students at Kisaju Campus doing their end of semester exams (May-August)

Picture 11: Best Marketers 2021/2022 Vincent Mugisa and Amyson Jakom receiving their trophies from our VC Prof Washington Okeyo during our staff consultative Picture 12: VC Prof. Washington Okeyo with PhD students.

Like our Facebook page:
The Management University
of Africa

Follow us on Twitter:
@ManagementUNI

Connect with us on Linked in:
The Management University
of Africa

Follow us on Instagram:
@management_University

Subscribe to our YouTube
Chanel: The Management
University of Africa

Use the hashtags:
#enablingfutures
#impactingprogress

Words: Joyce Salat
Design: Joyce Salat
Editor: Daisy Wanga

HAVE YOUR SAY!!!! For any inquiry, information, observation or
upcoming events,
kindly get in touch with the Corporate Affairs Department
through Daisy Wanga on:
Dwanga@mua.ac.ke or 0725911909

Volume: E4 Official Management University of Africa Internal Bulletin Enabling Futures, Impacting Progress    Enabling Futures, Impacting Progress

